his writing so far as it relates to Islam?

A. He believed it was necessary for the Islamic community to take a vastly different track than it was taking then. Himself and other Islamic modernists decided the only way to move forward was to try stop trying to mimic the west in culture and religion, avoid the secular democracy that was emerging in Europe and the United States, and, instead, pursue an Islamic path.

Now, ultimately speaking, in terms of policy, what that would have amounted to, nobody really knows. But his -- again, his idea was essential rejection of western culture, rejection of western historical and political ideas and creating a new political world in the Muslim world based upon Islam instead of based upon democracy or based upon communism.

- Q. What's the form of Government in Bangladesh?
- A. Bangladesh is currently, I believe, a parliamentary system, but -- and one of the parties I believe that's part of that parliament is Jamaat-e-Islami.
 - Q. What do you mean by "parliamentary"?
- A. They are political parties, they compete for seats, there is a prime minister.
- Q. How many political parties are there in Bangladesh?
 - A. Off the top of my head, I really couldn't tell

THERESA J. CASAL, RPR, CRR UNITED STATES COURT REPORTER - NDNY

1	Α.	No

3

4

5

6

7

8

9

10

11

12

15

17

18

20

21

22

23

24

- Q. Do you know an individual my the name of Meneeza Hossain?
 - A. No.
- Q. Do you know who role, if any, JEI Bangladesh has in the current Bangladeshi Government?
- A. I believe that they're a minority party involved in parliament. I know they're active politically, in terms of acquiring more seats, but I couldn't tell you more than that.
- Q. Are there geographic areas within Bangladesh that are dominated by the JEI Bangladesh, politically?
- A. Muslims. But, beyond that, I really couldn't tell you.
 - Q. No, I said geographically.
- 16 A. No.
 - Q. A certain section of Bangladesh dominated by JEI Bangladesh?
- 19 A. Not that I know of.
 - Q. What role, if any, does JEI Bangladesh have in the current executive branch for the Bangladesh Government?
 - A. It's, I believe again, a minority involved in parliament, but I don't know about that, the executive powers.
 - Q. Does JEI have any role in the actual running of the Bangladeshi Government?

1.3

- A. Well, informally. But, formally, again, I don't know.
 - O. When you say "informally," what do you money?
- A. JEI Bangladesh is a fairly influential group, both in Pakistan and Bangladesh, and it can bring political and demographic power to bear upon politicians, in the sense it is considered one of the major Islamic movements active in Bangladesh. Again, when Pakistani Muslims want to mobilize pressure on the Pakistani Government, they use Jamaat-e-Islami Pakistan, in the same sense Jamaat-e-Islami Bangladesh is a fairly major influence in Bangladesh, both informally and, I believe, also formally in the Government.
- Q. Are there any elected JEI Bangladesh officials in the Bangladeshi Government?
 - A. I don't know.
- Q. I am showing you an exhibit that I've marked as Exhibit 3 for today's date, and just -- you can ignore the handwriting on it, that's my handwriting. So you know, it says "three whole punch in binder," but can you identify what that one-page document is?
 - A. Yeah. It's my CV.
 - Q. Have you ever done any teaching at any university?
- 24 A. No.
 - Q. Under your description for experience, you write a category called major papers. Do you see that?

A. Yes.

- Q. What does that mean, major papers?
- A. Major papers would be major written materials that I have been commissioned to create. You'll notice that my honor thesis is on there from Georgetown University. Also on there are other papers published by the foundation I work for, The Nine Eleven Finding Answers Foundation, other documents on there that have also been published by various academic and scholarly organizations and journals. You'll notice on there the Danish Institute for International Studies, the Swedish National Defense College and also Foreign Affairs.
 - Q. What does the phrase "major papers" mean?
 - A. Major papers -- I write mostly longer materials.

 I used to publish shorter articles, and I no longer do that;

 I mostly write longer scholarly pieces now. So, I wouldn't,

 in this category, put newspaper articles or articles published in simple magazines. These are more along the lines of scholarly pieces.

 - Q. Do you have writings other than -- withdraw that.

 Do you have writings that have been published in the public domain, other than those that are identified under the listing of major papers?
 - A. Yes.

And have you written any papers on the topic of Q. 1 JEI Bangladesh? 2 Α. No. 3 At the bottom of your experience, it reads that you're currently employed as an on-air terrorism analyst for 5 6 NBC News/MSNBC? That's correct. 7 Α. ο. When did you begin that? 8 I began working for them in October of 2004. Α. 9 Do you consider the on-air reports on MSNBC since 10 Q. October 2004 by the MSNBC journalists to be authoritative? 11 12 Α. No. And have you ever been interviewed on MSNBC or NBC Ο. 13 News on the topic of Bangladesh? 14 Α. 15 No. Have you ever been interviewed on MSNBC or NBC 16 Q. News on the topic of JEI Bangladesh? 17 18 Α. No. Why don't you describe for the record what the 19 Q. globalterroralert.com website is? 20 In January of 2004, when I first started 21 Α. Sure. working on my own as a consultant, I felt that there was a 22 23 lack of information websites that contained real open source translations of raw documents from radical dissident groups in the Middle East and Islamic world and terrorist groups in the Middle East and Islamic world. And despite the plethora of information out there, videos, communiques and whatnot, I felt not enough was being put out there in a format and that non-Arabic speakers and non-Urdu speakers could get access to. So, I created this website as a means to distribute, primarily, free, open-source translations of audio recordings, video recordings and communiques to put out, by extremist groups and terrorist groups, primarily in the Muslim world and the Middle East.

24

- Q. Do you own the globalterroralert.com website?
- A. Yeah, that's my website.
- Q. Are there any articles or writings on the website authored by anyone other than you?
- A. There may have been an article or two co-written by, but, generally speaking, it's supposed to be -- actually, I should correct myself. Much of the material on there, it has my name on it, but it's not been written by me. These are simply flat translations of audio or video recordings, so it's not something I've actually written, other than typing it. It's a translation, a literal -- you know, without comments about whatever document it's from. So, there are certainly some documents on there that I've written, but the majority of the material on there, again, it's raw material, it's been done in such a way that it's done for educational purposes.

- Q. Your Exhibit Number 3, CV, states on it, under globalterroralert.com, that, among other things, which is the second bullet, I'll call it, that you research terrorist fund-raising and recruitment networks. Do you see that?
 - A. That's correct.
 - Q. What does that mean?
- A. In Europe, the United States and elsewhere, there are extensive networks of individuals who provide key resources to terrorist groups; namely, money, supplies and recruits. One of the most important and understudied areas of extremism and terrorism is the networks that support the organizations themselves, the networks that provide money, that provide supplies, that provide recruits. So, one of the things I studied is how do people become members of these groups, how do they get money to these groups, how do they survive, what is their military strategy. But, again, not at a theoretical level, but a very detailed level.
 - Q. And it says you use as sources -- withdraw that.
- It says "using sources, including declassified intelligence documents." What does that mean?
- A. Sometimes, in court cases such as these, documents will be released, or even original documents, regarding raids that have taken place in various different countries, regarding communication intercepts. Naturally, I am a bit cautious when it comes to using anything that comes from a Government source, but if I feel that there's enough information that something can be corroborated, especially when, in many cases in court cases, where you actually have the exhibits themselves, I will rely on them after being careful to note where they're coming from, the information is coming from.

- Q. And then you identify, as another source, "exhibits submitted in terror-related legal cases"?
 - A. That's correct.
 - O. What does that mean?
- A. Again, in a number of cases, both here in the United States and abroad, there have been very important documents, actual documents seized as evidence, original documents, where it's not so much a question of recycled information, but it's original seized receipts for terrorist charities, letters between the heads of individuals of different organizations, e-mails, stuff like that. And when I -- when those are reliable and they provide a reliable basis for getting information out of them, I use them.
 - Q. And then you also utilize Lexis-Nexis, correct?
 - A. That's another source I use, yes.
 - Q. Would you describe that for the record?
- A. Sure, Lexis-Nexis is a word searchable or a boolean searchable index of all newspaper, magazine articles, federal registers, dozens upon dozens of other - periodicals that are released on a daily basis. The index is kept up to date by the day, and you can search back to, I believe, 1976.

- Q. And then you also utilized what you identify as the World Wide Web, right?
 - A. That's correct.
- Q. And you also utilize the Foreign Broadcast Information Service, identified as FBIS, right?
 - A. That's correct.
 - Q. What's FBIS?
- A. FBIS an a U.S. Government agency that was set up to translate foreign news articles, and now, actually, it's expanded to also translate communiques from militant groups and videos from militant groups in an attempt to distribute them to policy makers, academics and others who can -- who have a use for regular translation of foreign material.
- Q. And you state on your -- under your globalterroralert.com information that you interviewed alleged terrorist recruiters, do you see that?
 - A. Yeah, that's correct.
 - Q. What's an alleged terrorist recruiter?
- A. Individuals that have either been designated by the U.S. Government as a specially designated global terrorism, SDGT, or individuals convicted in British court providing material support or have served as recruiters for

- terrorism. Additionally, I've also met with individuals who have fled the United States and the United Kingdom in order to avoid prosecution.
 - Q. How many alleged terrorist --
 - A. I am sorry. I meant to add one thing. I have also interviewed at least two individuals who are cooperating defendants in federal terrorism cases in the U.S. at the request of the FBI.
 - Q. Just to be clear, I was only asking the first clause, wasn't asking about cooperating defendants.
 - A. Sorry.

- Q. I am asking what are alleged terrorist recruiters, if you can confine your answer to that portion of the question.
 - A. Would you like me to name some?
 - Q. Those that you've interviewed would be helpful.
- A. Abuhamza Al-Masri, Omar Bakri Mohammed, Mohammed Al-Massari, dr. Saad Al-Faqih. Anjem Choudary. You want me to keep going?
 - Q. Yes.
- A. I've also interviewed leaders of his Hisbuttahrir.

 And I'm missing someone. Oh, I've also interviewed, or spoken electronically anyway, with an individual that goes by the nickname "Irhabi007." And I've also interviewed the families of suicide bombers from Saudi Arabia and Kuwait.

- Q. Are each of the people on the list, besides the family of suicide bombers, put into the classification of alleged terrorist recruiters?
 - A. Yeah, I believe so.
 - Q. And what is a terrorist solicitor?
- A. I would say Hisbuttahrir. Hisbuttahrir, on its face, appears to be a non-violent movement and possesses nonviolence. However, members of Hisbuttahrir have been arrested and have been accused of providing material support to different terrorist groups, including in Egypt and, I believe, also in the United Kingdom.
- Q. What's the significance to you that members of Hisbuttahrir have been arrested and associated with those type acts in Egypt?
- A. I think the significance is is that though perhaps the organization does not put a priority on violence, in fact, apparently shuns it, that the ideology of Hisbuttahrir, which is fairly extreme, very anti-western, fairly anti-Semitic, it pushes people down a road where, eventually, the prescription against violence becomes lost.
- Q. And the last group that you identify is cooperating defendants in criminal cases?
 - A. That's correct.
- Q. Are any of those on the list that you gave me initially that began with Al-Masri?

- MS. COOMBE: I am going to object to the extent that the answer might call for any nonpublic information.
 - Q. Let me ask it this way: Did you rely on any cooperating defendants in any criminal cases as a basis for the opinions that you formed and presented today?
 - A. No.
- Q. Have you ever interviewed any members of JEI Bangladesh?
- 10 A. No.

2

3

5

6

7

8

9

11

14

25

(Pause in proceedings.)

- Q. Can you name any of the major political parties in Bangladesh from year 2000 to the year 2004?
 - A. Other than Jamaat-e-Islami?
- 15 Q. Yes.
- A. That's -- I'm not familiar off the top of my head.
- Q. Have you ever heard of an organization known as the Bangladesh National Party?
- 19 A. Vaguely.
- Q. Do you know what it is?
- A. I'm assuming it's a political party, but, again - the name vaguely sounds familiar, but...
- Q. Do you know what, if anything, it stands for politically within Bangladesh?
 - A. Sorry, can't tell ya.

THERESA J. CASAL, RPR, CRR
UNITED STATES COURT REPORTER - NDNY

- Q. You can't tell me because you don't know?
- A. I don't know off the top of my head.
- Q. Okay. Do you consider jamaat.org a reliable source of information about JEI Bangladesh?
- A. I consider it a reliable source about Jamaat in general. I think the Jamaat movement in Bangladesh is closely related to the Jamaat in Pakistan. In fact, if I remember, they have joint conferences together. They are particular -- particularly when it comes to their philosophy about the west and working with the west. I think they follow, again, consistently, the ideals of Madudi. In terms of policy prescriptions, there may be small differences between Pakistan and Bangladesh, there certainly are differences, generally speaking, with Pakistanis and Bangladeshis, but, I think, generally speaking, the one party mimics the other, in terms of its ideology.
- Q. Do you consider the United States Embassy in Bangladesh as authoritative on JEI?
 - A. Sure.
- Q. Do you consider the United States Embassy in Bangladesh authoritative on the relationship between the United States and Bangladesh?
 - A. Sure.
- Q. Now, you use a phrase in your report, which I can give to ya, the second to last page, that the first